"We all want what's best for our pets," said Charles Gardner. "That's why I wanted to use my skills and reach as wide as I could to help. When I started I thought it was only dogs but I quickly learned all kinds of amazing cats are dying in mills all around the world." The Gardner family decided to use their extensive knowledge of pet care to help other people in their community. They sent out a plea for donations to The International Animal Rescue and then started a group on Facebook. "It worked. We did just fine," said Gardner. "I'm just glad I found it. I never thought it would exist." More donations and a year later, The Animal Shelter started a new chapter. The family bought a tent and added a few items to their agenda. And with the help of people like Jeff Bordwell, they started offering acupuncture for pets and cats. "Animals, mostly, are much more open to acupuncture," Bordwell said. "Pets are normally more relaxed than people." Acupuncture involves the use of thin needles to stimulate the body. Those with pets often say the treatment is a no-fail treatment that gives relief from pain, nervousness, and stress. "I've used acupuncture on people and it really does work," Bordwell said. Now, the Animal Shelter offers acupuncture sessions for both people and pets. "We have lot of people use it for themselves," said Gardner. "You'd be surprised how many dogs, especially, will lie around with their eyes half open and you can talk to them and they'll look up at you like they're listening. It's amazing." About half the homeless community of Grand Terrace uses the Humane Society Shelter. The group now has a tent and many of the people there seem to be settling in.

Beware of U-turn (1,679) 5 By Ewokus Its really hard to make an Rpg that doesn't suck. But I think Tarnished has found that potential balance. The combat is repetitive, and the classes are completely useless. I just wish they'd bring back the wizard's subclass from the first one. Lets Get Fun! (1,620) 5 By Lil Hellman So far I've been having an absolute blast with this game. The character design is excellent, the graphic style is refreshing, and even the music fits the atmosphere. My only complain would be the constant transitions between left and right sides that would occur sometimes randomly. But other than that, I love this game!
Elden Ring Ver.2.0 (1,586) 5 By Cjmola You and your party (5) can win various races on the world map and be the strongest race that day. There are various bosses to battle on each race map. If you want, you can compete for the championship to become the fastest race. There are various events you can participate in, such as race events to earn additional units. Also, there are many side quests that you can do. Well, the above content is all I have talked about now, so stay tuned for more info in the future. Now that is what i call a game title (1,491) 5 By J K I was looking for a RPG to fill in the gaps in my repertoire and have been pleasantly surprised. I haven't played much of the genre but this one is literally on every "best of" list I have seen. It is very well put together and features just about everything a game of this type should. It is also very accessible. I can't wait to see what the future holds for this game. Rise! Tarnished! (1,458) 4 By Sean Every RPG needs good characters, and for the most part, this game accomplishes it. The skills and dialogue are a nice touch, too. The character sprites are a little weird, though. And the graphics are not as much of a gimmick as the first title.
The Birth of a Fantasy Masterpiece! (1,448) 5 By Coats I love the first bff6bb2d33
